MANEUVERS IN SENATE BLOCK ACTION ON NRA

CONFIRMATION FOR $4000 OFFICERS DEMANDED

BY NATHAN ROBERTSON
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Washington, June 11. (AP)—Senate action to extend a shrunken portion of NRA was blocked at least temporarily today when administration leaders hurriedly rejected to prevent final adoption of a rider requiring confirmation of all federal officials making $4,000 or more a year.

Twice during the day Democratic leaders, apprehensive of the last approaching expiration of the recovery act Sunday night, sought to push the extension resolution through, but both times they ran into trouble.

The resolution was revised from the form in which it passed the house. It would extend the midget NRA until April 1, 1936, but its proponents claimed it would restore the anti-trust laws to full vigor.

In the first attempt at action, the leaders were blocked by a shortage of time. In the second, they were caught off guard when the senate voted 43 to 38 to adopt an amendment by Senator Gore (D-Okla.) to require senate approval of all higher paid government officials.

Threatens Filibuster

Chairman Harrison (D-Miss.) of the finance committee changed his vote so that he could move a reconsideration. Senator Long (D-La.), who was leading the fight for the rider, outmaneuvered him.

Long made a motion to reconsider and got Senator Gore to move to table the motion, which would have sealed the amendment onto the NRA resolution. To avert that, Senator Barkley, acting Democratic leader, hurriedly moved to recess until tomorrow. His motion carried 45 to 38.

As the vote was taken, however, Long hurled a threat of filibuster at the senate leaders.

Gore's amendment complicated the NRA situation after Harrison thought he had it all smoothed out by a compromise which he said would restore the anti-trust laws only for agreements on hours and wages and against unfair trade practices already forbidden by law.

NRA foes, at least with the exception of Long, apparently were ready to accept the compromise, when Gore put in his amendment. It would require senate confirmation of even those higher paid executive officials now in office.

Long was particularly interested because he contended it would break up the system under which the administration has appointed his foes to jobs in Louisiana without senate confirmation.

The Gore amendment would require officials in the AAA and NRA to be confirmed annually, and would require officers in other government agencies to be confirmed at the beginning of each administration.

Plant For Cutting Whisky Covered

Detroit, June 11 (AP)—A whisky cutting plant, equipped to counterfeit many well known brands of liquor, was discovered here today by federal agents. Six men were arrested.

Officers of the internal revenue department said they made the raid after they saw Charles Evans, whom they described as an Ecorse bootlegger of prohibition days, drive into an alley and load a 50-gallon can of alcohol into his car. In the building they captured Walter Engel, Earl Donahue, George Stinson, Sol Rosenfeld and Nathan Schnittman.

The agents seized a supply of Canadian revenue stamps, Michigan liquor control commission stamps, American, French and Canadian labels, flavoring extracts, and a quantity of bottled liquors.

SEEK GAMBLER AS MURDERER

Night Club Singer Shot to Death as She Begs For Mercy

Chicago, June 11. (AP)—Police tonight sought Anthony Madona, 26, a small time gambler, for questioning in the brazen "witness slaying" of Mrs. Celia Venable, 29, red haired night club singer, in her hotel bed.

The killer, accompanied by a companion compelled Harry Keeney, night clerk at the Berwyn Beach hotel, to accompany him to the woman's room and look on as he fired five pistol shots into the woman's body. When she pleaded "Tony, don't shoot any more" the killer fired again.

Police described Madona as a disappointed suitor of Mrs. Venable. They also sought the other man who escaped with the killer.

The slain woman was identified at the coroner's inquest by her father, Robert Smart, who told authorities Madona had been bothering her for months.

At the coroner's hearing Keeney said he attempted to make a disturbance at the young woman's door when the gunman made him lead him there, saying the hotel guest was his wife.

"She looked very peaceable sleeping there," Keeney testified. "Tony ordered me to step out into the hall but she asked me not to leave her alone with him and I remained."

"'I got something here you're going to get' Tony said and started shooting."

The young woman, a native of Ohio, had been a night club entertainer.

North Lake Man Will Carry Beer On Back 3 Miles

Ishpeming, Mich., June 11 (AP)—A modern Samson will attempt to carry a half-barrel of beer on his back from Ishpeming to his home in North Lake within three hours Thursday morning, covering a distance of approximately three and one-half miles—up and down hill—on foot.

The feat will be undertaken by Joseph Zopetti, 37, of North Lake, in an effort to fulfill several wagers he has made with friends. The keg of beer, weighing 185 pounds, is about 30 pounds heavier than the man who will carry it and terms of the wager are such that exceptional endurance and strength will be required if Zopetti hopes to win.

One of the conditions of the wager is that he must reach the West Ishpeming hill, about a mile and a half from the tavern from where he will start, before he is permitted to set down the keg and rest. After reaching the hill he may rest as often as he pleases, but he must hoist the barrel on his back each time without assistance. He must traverse the entire distance before noon.

Falsely Imprisoned, Law Suit Alleges

Negaunee, Mich., June 11 (AP)—A $5,000 suit has been filed in the Marquette county circuit court by Carl Delaney, of Johannesburg, Mich., charging he was falsely imprisoned by David Nason, of Big Bay, state conservation officer.

In the declaration filed by Michael F. De Fant, attorney for the plaintiff, it is charged that "duress, coercion, fraud and conspiracy" were used by Nason to cause Delaney to plead guilty to a charge of illegally trapping beaver in Powell township. A judgment of $2,500 is demanded on two counts filed against the conservation officer.

Japan Takes Tight Hold on North China

(Copyright 1935, By The Associated Press)

Tientsin, China, June 11.—Japan's army, its bloodless coup in north China almost completely successful, tonight was determined to maintain its "strong" attitude until China fulfills its sweeping demands.

With Major-Gen. Kenji Doihara, the mysterious "Lawrence of Manchuria," present, army chieftains meeting in secret conference were said reliably to have agreed to continue watchful waiting until all north China's affairs are arranged to their liking.

(Non-Japanese quarters in Tokyo regarded China's submission to the Japanese demands as having definitely added Hopei Province to Japan's Asiatic sphere of influence, comparing the army's action with the seizure of Manchuria (now Manchoukuo) in 1931 and of Jehol Province in 1933.)

Troops Flow Out

After conferring with Col. Seiya Kita, chief of the China section of the Japanese army's general staff at Tokyo, and representatives of the Tientsin garrison, Col. Doihara, whose appearance in Manchuria in 1931 preceded its subjugation, announced:

"Although the situation has eased superficially, it has not dissolved."

Fear of an outbreak of hostilities lessened here and in Peiping, due to China's prompt compliance with Japan's demand for removal of all troops regarded as hostile to Japan from Hopei.

National government troops flowed steadily southward over the Peiping-Hankow railway, while troops of Gen. Shang Chen's crack 32nd army, which Japan regards as independent of the Nanking government, moved into Tientsin to take over garrison duties.

Chinese authorities were equally prompt in ordering out all representatives of the Kuomintang (national government party), as the Japanese had demanded.

(An exchange telegraph dispatch from Peiping to London said Gen. Ying-Ching had resigned the war portfolio because of shame over the way China had been "humiliated.")

NO MONEY FOR ISLE PURCHASE

Cammerer Says Approval of Project Far in Distance

Washington, June 11 (AP)—Arno B. Cammerer, director of national parks, told Representative Hook (D-Mich) today that the proposal to make Isle Royale a national park was "a nice gesture" but that final approval of the project was far in the distance.

Cammerer explained to the upper Michigan representative that although the project had been under consideration for some time it was not close to realization. It was authorized by congress on condition that the state buy the land.

Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich) suggested to the government that public works funds be used on the project, but it was understood his letter was not regarded as an actual application.

The park service informed Hook that there was no precedent for using public works money for such a project, and that to set one might be dangerous.

Representative Woodruff (R-Mich), who is a member of the national forest reservation commission, has said that if the project ever comes before his body he will be "for it."

Building Activity Shows Big Boost

Detroit, June 11 (AP)—The Detroit city council today authorized the department of building and safety engineering to hire nine more inspectors and two stenographers because of the marked increase in building activity which has swamped building inspection facilities.

Joseph P. Wolff, commissioner of building and safety engineering, told the council the additional help was necessary because "we are swamped with calls for inspections."

Escanaba Man Gets Prison Sentence

GOP'S DRAFT PARTY CREED AT CONCLAVE

MEMBERS CHEERED WITH PROSPECTS FOR ELECTION

Springfield, Ill., June 11 (AP)—Armed for the fight with a unanimously approved "Republican creed", some 8,000 hopeful members of the grand old party left for their homes in ten prairie states tonight, enthusiastic over their chances to regain the midwest in 1936.

The final session of their two day "grass roots" gathering in state fair grounds coliseum, adopted as the views of the cornbelt branch of the party and bait for all groups dissatisfied with new deal policies, a comprehensive "declaration of principles" offered by the resolutions committee headed by Edward A. Hayes of Decatur, Ill.

The pronouncement declared for a defense of American institutions, "a sound currency based on gold and definitely stabilized by congress and international in character," a balanced budget "by the honest method of bringing the expenses of the government within the limits of its income," states' rights.

Justice for Veterans

To labor was held out an approval of "the principle of collective bargaining," wages "consistent with American standards," the outlawing of child labor and protection for women workers.

"Justice" was promised the veterans of all wars and the need for "the establishment of old age and unemployment reserves" was recognized.

The statement tacitly approved some fundamentals of the AAA.

"We hold," the farm plank read in part, "that no economic advantage of agriculture this far attained shall be surrendered. The farmer is entitled to a fair and proportionate part of the national income and to receive a parity price for the products of his farm in the domestic markets. We endorse the enactment of such legislation, approved by the farmers themselves, as will accomplish such purposes."

National security, it was stated, must start with agriculture. The machinery of federal land bank loans, it was added, should be used to refinance farm mortgage debts at low rates of interest stabilization of the farm market was regarded as the major step in the "elimination of depressions and the stabilization of all business."

"Sponsors of the "grass roots" meeting, brought here to draw inspiration from the many shrines to Abraham Lincoln, first Republican president, assessed its principal accomplishments as including:

A unification of many GOP factions in a common purpose.

A definite invitation to members of the Democratic party out of sympathy with the new deal to join an anti-Roosevelt movement under the GOP standard and the prediction of Lowden that "hundreds of thousands of patriotic Democrats will rally to our banner."

Formation of a committee to hold the grass roots states in a bloc until the national convention.

Alleged Narcotic Peddlers Arraigned

Detroit, June 11 (AP)—Four men, arrested in a narcotics raid by federal agents Monday during which $200,000 worth of contraband was seized, were arraigned before United States commissioners here today.

Gus Kyanakais of Toledo pleaded guilty to a charge of possessing and peddling narcotics and was held in $25,000 bond by Commissioner Thomas Q. Quinn to await action by the federal grand jury. Arthur Gallo of Detroit pleaded not guilty and was held in $25,000 bond with examination set for June 20.

David Feldman and Louis Simons of Detroit pleaded not guilty before Commissioner J. Stanley Hurd and were held in $15,000 bond each. Their examinations were set for June 17.

Liner Normandie Sets New Record

Aboard S. S. Normandie, at Sea, June 11 (AP)—The French liner Normandie beat all records on an eastern Atlantic crossing tonight by passing Bishop's Rock at 10:58 p. m., making the crossing from Ambrose Light in four days, three hours, 28 minutes. Her speed averaged 30.31 knots.

Officials of the vessel said the performance surpasses the Bremen's record of four days, 16 hours, 15 minutes, at an average of 28.51 knots.

Kidnaper Caught; Suspect Trapped

Confessed kidnaper of George Weyerhaeuser, Jr., in Tacoma, Wash., Harmon M. Waley, 24, left, faces the death penalty if convicted under Washington's stringent law. Waley was captured in Salt Lake City after his wife, arrested while passing ransom bills, implicated him. In the hunt for accomplices, William Mahan, 35, right, was believed trapped in Butte, Mont., after he escaped from a stolen car leaving $15,000 in ransom bills. Both Waley and Mahan are ex-convicts.

Unnecessary Holding Companies Abolished

BY PRESTON L. GROVER
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Washington, June 11 (AP)—Impelled by President Roosevelt's personal backing, legislation to abolish "unnecessary" public utility holding companies was swept through the senate today by a 56 to 32 vote.

Hotly debated to the end, final approval was given only after a single vote blocked a move by Senator Dietrich D. Ill.) to carve out of the Wheeler-Rayburn bill machinery empowering the securities commission to dissolve or reorganize by [illegible] all public utility holding companies it found contrary to "public policy."

The 45 to 44 vote rejecting this amendment after Senator Wheeler (D. Mont.) had read a pencilled note from President Roosevelt holding such a change "contrary" to his recommendations, foretold a stiff battle over the same provision in the house.

Couzens Approves

There, a similar bill by Chairman Rayburn (D. Tex) was locked in the interstate commerce committee, still undergoing scrutiny by subcommittees.

Just before passage, the senate accepted an aendment by Borah (R. Ida.) to increase the drastic force of the bill by directing the securities commission to prevent more than one holding company being imposed upon an operating company.

On the passage ballot, 45 Democrats were joined by nine Republicans, one progressive and one Farmer-Laborite. Against passage were 18 Democrats and 14 Republicans.

The Michigan senators split on the issue. Sen. Couzens voted for the measure and Sen. Vandenberg against it.

The major Dieterich amendment was debated so hotly that such terms as "fraud," "chicanery" "blood suckers" and "thieves" flew in the chamber. Scarcely a member was absent.

The preliminary show-down vote found a dozen members on the floor closely following the tally themselves in order to prepare themselves for any parliamentary moves possible prior to the clerk's formal announcement.

The policy of the bill outlined an intent to "eliminate" pyramided holding companies, those described by supporters of the bill as a "holding company, piled on a holding company, piled on an operating utility."

To carry out that policy, section eleven provided machinery for the securities commission to trim nation-wide holding companies to "regionally and geographically integrated" systems sheared of control of all but one type of utility, and their activities confined to one section of the country.

"A vote for the Dieterich amendments is a vote to kill the bill," Senator Wheeler shouted as the clock moved toward the showdown hour. Further, he added, it is "a vote for the power of lobbyists in the galleries."

In vain Dieterich argued that Wheeler's intent was to impose government control on all utilities in the country.

WOMEN FAVOR BIRTH CONTROL

Intelligent Use of Contraceptives Urged by 493-17 Vote

Detroit, June 11 (AP)—The general Federation of Women's Clubs, in what delegates described as the most radical action since it gave support to suffrage, approved today by resolution the dissemination of birth control information through scientifically regulated sources.

Recognizing through its resolution that "it is of utmost importance to all Americans that the population of our country be vigorous and healthy both mentally and physically, and that proper and intelligent use of scientific contraceptive methods under direction of qualified and reputable physicians is essential to these ends," the convention voted 493 to 17 in favor of its provisions.

Opposition to the resolution failed to materialize, as convention feeling, sagging after the election of yesterday vented itself on a resolution reaffirming the Federation's stand on world court adherence.

Argue Women's Rights

The world court resolution, inoffensive in itself since most of the affiliated clubs had approved it by proxy before the convention, became a burning question when Mrs. Harvey W. Wiley of Washington offered a 40 word amendment.

Appended to the resolution, the amendment would have placed the Federation on record as urging "that the code of law to be administered by the world court shall not contain any inequalities based on sex."

No sooner had it reached the rostrum than world court was forgotten, and for a half hour the battle raged over women's rights.

Eventually Miss Avis Long of St. Louis, Federation peace leader, gained the floor and diverted attention back to the world court. "It seems far more important," she said, "to provide protection for women and their families than to raise the question of rights. Man and woman suffers just the same during war."

The amendment was defeated, 142 to 256. The resolution passed by an overwhelming vote.

Mrs. S. Blair Luckie of Chester, Pa., sponsor of the birth control resolution, said "this action imposes no responsibility upon any individual. We are simply indorsing an amendment to the penal code of our government."

Opposition came chiefly from delegates who held the informa-

RULES CHANGED FOR LICENSEES

Taverns Can Get Permit To Sell Beer Off Premises

Lansing, Mich., June 11 (AP)—The Michigan liquor control commission disclosed today the passage of a regulation permitting restaurant, tavern and beer gardens—now licensed to sell beer on the premises—to sell for consumption off the premises.

Chairman John S. McDonald made the disclosure at the conclusion of a 25 minutes argument for the double permit by a delegation from the Michigan beer and Liquor Dealers association. McDonald interrupted Frank C. Sampson, of Flint, president, with the remark:

"We're just a step ahead. We passed that regulation several days ago."

Asked why he had not made public the new regulation, affecting 7,665 retail licensees of the commission, the chairman said "We didn't want to advertise it. We don't want a rush for new licensees in here."

The new regulation allows present retailers of beer and liquor by the glass to obtain a second license permitting them to sell beer for consumption at home.

The same delegation asked the commission to reduce from 12 to eight the number of ounces of beer which the state permits to be sold for five cents.

McDonald said the commission adopted today a new regulation to obtain Michigan stamps and stamp their beer in their own breweries, if it is to be sold here. At present the out-of-state beer is stamped in Michigan varehouses.

Michigan Protests Dual License Fees

Lansing, June 11 (AP)—Michigan will protest formally tomorrow against the attempt of Illinois to collect truck license fees from Michigan traffic operating in both states.

Louis R. Moroney, director of the Michigan motor vehicle division, said he would confer with John Nash, chief clerk in the Illinois secretary of state's office, and seek an amicable settlement.

Moroney said each of the two states had agreed several years ago to permit trucks from the other to operate without two sets of license plates.

Moroney told of receiving numerous complaints from Michigan truck line operators who reported Illinois officials had demanded license money from them.

Speed Limit For US-12 Increased

Lansing, June 11 (AP)—Highway Commissioner Murray D. Van Wagoner raised the speed limit on US-12 in the village of Lawrence to 40 miles an hour today, but denied he was acting to eliminate a "speed trap." He ordered the new limit effective June 15.

The commissioner said authorities in the Van Buren county village had agreed to the new speed limit.

Domestic Copper Sales Increased

New York, June 11 (AP)—A sharp increase in sales of domestic copper following extremely sluggish demand in the wake in invalidation of NRA codes was reported in local metal circles today.

Sales of "blue eagle" metal on Monday totaled approximately 4,468,000 pounds, the largest single day sales since May 11. It was reported that practically the entire amount went to fabricators. The price remained unchanged at 9 cents a pound.

Foreign demand for copper, however, continues in small volume, according to local sources, with sales reported to have been made today at 7.825 cents a pound CIF European base ports.

The meeting of representatives of the industry scheduled for today has been postponed for a reason not stated.

FEDERAL MEN LEAD SEARCH FOR SUSPECT

CACHE OF RANSOM MONEY FOUND TUESDAY

(BULLETIN)

Butte, Mont., June 11 (AP)—Rumors that a "big break" was about to come in the hunt for William Mahan, accused of the Weyerhaeuser kidnaping, were heard at police headquarters late today as department of justice agents suddenly intensified their search for the elusive ex-convict.

Salt Lake City, June 11 (AP)—Manhunters armed for a finish fight were believed closing in rapidly tonight on scar-marked William Mahan, confident his capture would complete solution of the George Weyerhaeuser kidnaping and bring recovery of all but a fraction of the $200,000 ransom.

Indications were the army of peace officers and federal G-men, all heavily armed, expected to have their quarry soon.

The search for Mahan—32-year-old paroled robber implicated by two confessed members of the kidnap gang held here—ranged throughout the west and along the Canadian border. Hundreds joined in the chase.

$116,000 Recovered

Activity at Butte, Mont., indicated, however, that pursuers were confident the fugitive was cowering in some out of the way hiding place there, perhaps with one or more confederates.

Investigators made no secret of their conviction that when Mahan is found some $89,000 of the $200,000 paid by Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Weyerhaeuser, Sr., of Tacoma, Wash., for the return of their 9-year-old son, will be found with him.

Finding of $116,000 of the money was anounced at Washington today by J. Edgar Hoover, director of the department of justice, bureau of investigation, with the recovery of $90,700 in Emigration canyon near here.

Meanwhile at Tacoma, Wash., the federal government filed Lindbergh law "kidnaping charges against Mahan and against Harmon Waley and his wife Margaret, through whose arrests federal agents were spurred to track down Mahan.

The charges were filed before U. S. Commissioner H. H. Tracey and they alleged that the nine year-old boy was transported across the Washington state line to Blanchard, Ida., and Spirit Lake, Ida.

The Lindbergh law provides the death penalty only in case the victim is harmed or is not returned.

Breaking under questioning as they had done in implicating Mahan, Waley, and his blond wife told investigators here where the money would be found, Hoover said.

While the hunt went forward for Mahan, a plane was reported ready to speed the Waleys to Tacoma and trial for the abduction of the little heir to the Weyerhaeuser timber fortune as soon as legal formalities should be completed here.

While department of justice men indicated they believed the Waleys and Mahan alone engineered the kidnaping, many developments supported belief expressed in other quarters more persons were expected.

At Tacoma, it was recalled that even after the three suspects had been publicly named, a department of justice agent asked newspapermen to agree to withhold all publication of ransom

YOUTH ADMITS KILLING FATHER

Slaying Planned by His Mother and Doctor, Boy Confesses

Springfield, Mo., June 11 (AP)—Lyold Robinson, 18-year old farm boy, confessed today, authorities announced, that he beat his father to death and burned the body for $5,000 insurance.

In the signed confession, the youth declared the slaying had been carefully planned by his mother, Mrs. Mary Robinson, 49, and their family physician, Dr. W. F. Schlict, 55, Niangua, Mo.

The three were placed in jail at Marshfield, Mo.

Officers said an $8,000 mortgage on the farm of the slain man, Robert Robinson, 50, was to have been foreclosed June 5 or 6 and the motive for the killing, the night of June 3, apparently was to get money to pay the mortgage.

The physician, investigators quoted the boy as saying, was to get an extra $5,000 they hoped to collect for double indemnity in case of accidental death.

Lloyd told officers he slipped up behind his father as he sat at the supper table and struck him on the head with a heavy steel rasp.

Then he walked to the door where his mother was waiting and said:

"Mother, I've done it."

Mother and son carried the body to Lloyd's automobile. After driving to a lonely spot, Lloyd related, he poured kerosene over the seat cushions on which his father's body was slumped and set fire to them.

FEDERAL MEN LEAD SEARCH FOR SUSPECT

money discoveries "so we can catch the rest of the gang."

It was known that the G-men called U. S. Commissioner H. G. Fitch repeatedly and besought him to issue a warrant for the arrest of "Joe Doe." He refused, after issuing complaints for the named suspect as the Waleys and W. S. Grant, alias William Mahan.

Hoover did not itemize the $116,000 of the ransom money found. Only approximately $110,000 could be accounted for definitely in unofficial checks.

This total included the $90,700 found in the canyon—wrapped in black oil cloth and a gunny sack as investigators said Waley had hidden it; $15,155 left by Mahan in a car he abandoned Sunday at Butte, Mont., when police approached; $4,000 G-men believe Waley burned in fright and some $300 spent by Waley and his wife.

The kidnapers were not honest even among themselves, if detectives' conclusions were correct.

Investigators said Waley appeared to have been "shorted," having apparently received only $95,000 from Mahan who took $105,000.

Profitable Crop In Michigan Forecast

Lansing, June 11 (AP)—Michigan farmers had the word of the state's cooperative crop reporting service today that they can expect to reap a profitable harvest this year.

The service said the majority of crops in the state will equal the average for the last 10 years and will be far ahead of last year's drought-shortened harvest. Prospects were for a fruit crop well above the average, the forecast said.

The service looks for a wheat crop of 16,716,000 bushels, contrasted with last year's 10,976,000 bushels. The average for the five-year period 1918 to 1932 was 15,343,000 bushels.

Detroit, June 11 (AP)—The cat which inherited an income of $5 a month for life when Josephine St. John, director of music at Adrian college, died in 1929, must appear in probate court here before Judge Joseph A. Murphy and prove his identity, or his guardian will be out $250.

The guardian is Seymour May, of Grand Rapids, who wants to collect $250 from the estate.

The will provided $5 a month for Billy, the cat, and $25 a month for the support of Rags, a dog. Rags is dead, and Detroit heirs think Billy may be dead also. They say Billy was old and toothless in 1929.

Naval Academy was started on its active career. STATE PLANS TO CELEBRATE

Long Struggle to Get Statehood Inspires Active Summer

Historic Michigan, one of the oldest sections of the United States in point of exploration and settlement, is expecting to play host to more tourists and summer residents during the next two years than ever before.

The occasion is the two-year celebration of Michigans Centennial of Statehood, which began officially Jan. 26, 1935, and ends Jan. 26, 1937.

During this period the rich historical heritage of the area, amassed during action-filled years under the flags of France, England, Spain and the United States, will be stressed as the scenic attractions of the region have been emphasized in the past.

Many Pageants

Colorful figures of three centuries will reappear, and the stirring scenes in which they participated will be re-enacted this summer and next as Centennial celebrations are held throughout the State.

Every community is being urged by the Michigan Centennial Joint Committee to plan some celebration appropriate to its background. Attempts are being made to coordinate and schedule these local celebrations into a state-wide program that will assure a series of such events during the two-year period.

The Michigan Historical Commission, the Michigan State Historical Society and the tourist and resort associations of the State including the Upper Peninsula Development Bureau, the East Michigan Tourist Association, the Michigan Tourist and Resort Association, the Southeast Michigan Tourist and Resort Association and the Mackinac Island State Park Commission, together with the major civic organizations of the State, are co-operating in plans for the celebration.

The marking of significant sites in Michigan history, hitherto unmarked, is one phase of the centennial observance that is expected to focus attention on specific communities. Those that have already been marked are to be the center of other ceremonies.

Struggle Marked

The explanation of the two-year celebration, instead of a one-year centennial observance, lies in the difficulties experienced by the residents of Michigan in gaining statehood.

Originally settled by the French and taken from them by the British, the Michigan are a became on paper a part of the United States as a result of the War of the American Revolution. The area did not actually become a part of the United States until 13 years after the war, however, when the British finally yielded the border posts.

The opening of the War of 1812 was marked by the recapture of the Michigan area by the British. Re-won by the Americans in 1813, through Oliver Hazard, Perrys victory on Lake Erie and William Henry Harrisons successes on land, the territory struggled for two decades toward statehood.

Boundary Dispute

An act authorizing the election of delegates to meet in convention to form a constitution for the State of Michigan was signed Jan. 26, 1935, by Acting-Gov. Stevens T. Mason. The constitutional convention met in Detroit May 11, 1835, and sat through May and June.

The constitution formulated by this convention was adopted by popular vote Oct. 5, 1835. The voters at the same time named Mason Governor, chose a complete Legislature, and also a representative to Congress. The first State Legislature met in November, 1835, and elected two United States Senators.

A dispute arose, however, over the boundary between Michigan and Ohio. It was this dispute, principally, which led Congress for more than a year to refuse Michigan admission to the Union. In June, 1836, Congress agreed to admit the state if the boundary requested by Ohio were consented to by Michigan. The latter, in return, was to receive the remainder of the upper peninsula.

This proposal was rejected by Michigan in September, 1836, but approval by a so-called "frost-bitten convention" in December, Congress then passed the Act of Admission which was signed by President Jackson on Jan. 26, 1837.

Radio Field Set Proves Valuable In Wire Control

Radio field equipment has just scored another victory over the red poacher, forest fire.

Quick work with portable field sets developed by radio engineers was the means of preventing a serious forest fire in a dangerous slash area of the Jordan river valley.

On receiving a report of the fire, H. A. Dunsmore, district conservation supervisor of Boyne City, immediately dispatched radio equipment to the scene. A set operated at the fire by R. O. Williams radioed information to headquarters as to the condition of the blaze, the number of men and the type of specialized fire fighting equipment needed. Directions as to the trail by which to send them also were given.

Supervisor Dunsmore, by means of a set at headquarters operated by O. B. Slocum, remained in contact with the fire until it was extinguished. The blaze was confined to six and a quarter acres and without the help of radio, Dunsmore stated, it would have developed into a serious condition.

OIL CONDITIONS WILL BE SIFTED

Committee Told Small Dealers Not Given Much Chance

Lansing, June 11 (AP)—The legislative committee investigating the oil industry in Michigan left here today to inquire into conditions at Clare.

On the eve of its departure, Senator Joseph A. Baldwin, its chairman, said Isaiah Leebove, who figured in the administration of former Governor William A. Comstock, might be called before the committee as a witness. He is an oil producer at Clare.

Today John Cox, of Marshall, told the committee that he had been denied a source of oil supply for his independent station by two companies since interesting himself in the probe. He named the Continental Oil company and the Champlin Oil company of Enid, Okla.

Cox said a representative of Continental came to his office last February and warned him not to participate in the move of independents against major or "integrated" companies. He now is forced to buy oil from an independent rival, he said, in order to operate.

George W. Lynn, president of the Country Gas and Oil corporation, of Fowlerville, wrote to the committee asking it to investigate reports of his men that they had been approached and threatened by representatives of large oil companies. Assistant Attorney General Gordon E. Tappan, attached to the committee, sent police to Fowlerville to summon witnesses before the committee.

Johnston, to accept delivery of a carload of eight-inch water pipe shipped here from Birmingham, Ala., because it came in 16-foot lengths whereas the order placed by the city specified 12-foot lengths, stirred up a hornet's nest at last night's meeting of the city commission when Commissioner Lee McGinley, head of the water department, charged in a prepared statement that he was being made the goat of political play on the part of some of the other commissioners; that he was the victim of a frameup in the water pipe matter and that since his election to the city commission he had been subjected to false and unjust accusations of collusion with Gurn S. Webb, agent of the company from which the water pipe was ordered, to get city business.

Farmers' Union Now Organized At Perronville

An organization meeting of the Farmers' Union was held at Perronville Sunday afternoon, with about 50 farmers present. The meeting was called by several farmers near Perronville, who were assisted in arrangements by the Rev. Fr. T. A. Drengacz of Perronville. Omer Haelterman, Lewis Zimmerman and A. W. Hedlund of Cloverland local No. 1, Hermansville, were present.

Mr. Haelterman spoke of the need for farmers organizing in a real farmers' union, free from any outside economic or political influence. He discussed the Frazier-Lemke refinancing bill for farmers. Following Mr. Haelterman, Mr. Hedlund talked on the Massingale-Thomas "cost of production for the farmers" bill, and explained how it is possible to arrive at the average cost of production. He also stressed the need for stronger farmer organizations to realize the program.

Father Tom gave a stirring talk on the plight of the farmer and the necessity for organization. After the application for a charter had been signed by 45 members, the following officers were elected: president, Matt Luchay; vice-president, Matt Slaga; secretary-treasurer, Chester Godlewski; chaplain, Rev. Fr. Drengacz; conductor, Peter Holochwost; warden, Stanley Ciesla. Matt Luchay and Chester Godlewski were elected delegates to the Upper Peninsula conference of farmers and workers and other liberal groups which will be held in Gladstone June 16 and 17.

At Hermansville

The Cloverland local of the Farmers' Union held its regular meeting last Thursday June 6th at the home of A. W. Hedlund near Hermansville. A large attendance was present and the most important matters discussed was organization work and legislation. Several visitors from other communities were present. They were: Walter Anderson and his son of Carney, Mich., Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Larson from Bark River, Mr. and Mrs. Emil Myrvall and John Swille from Wilson. All were very much interested in the work done and program made by the Farmers' Union.

Omer Haelterman, president of the local arrived from a state board meeting at Owosso just in time to give a report on the deliberations of the state board. Among other things he warned the members and visitors present of the danger of fascism in this country and urged redoubled effort on the part of the members to extend the influence of the Farmers' Union through organization of new locals, so that Americans may retain the rights they cherish and which are guaranteed to us by the constitution.

This meeting also took the form of a farewell party for the Hedlund family who are moving to Minnesota in the near future. After the meeting lunch was served followed by dancing. A beautiful gift was presented to Mr. and Mrs. Hedlund, and Audrey.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Willard Johnson June 20th.

County Burns Road Bonds at Celebration

Pavement system outlives 1915 bond issue—"good for another 20 years" say local taxpayers

WAY back in 1915 Vermilion County, Illinois, floated a $1,500,000 bond issue to build a system of paved roads. Vermilion people wanted to get out of the mud—to connect towns—to speed produce to market—to bring schools closer. Naturally, they chose concrete.

And the wisdom of their choice was shown on June 5 when a great concourse of farmers and towns-people drove over the 18-year-old concrete roads to watch the burning of the paid-up bonds at a big celebration in Danville.

The original 145 miles of 10-foot concrete roads are still in service (50 miles of pavement since widened to 18 feet) and more have been added until this farsighted county has approximately 250 miles of pavement on farm-to-market routes.

The original concrete is in splendid condition after 18 years' hard use. That's typical of concrete. It is low in upkeep . . . cheapest in the long run . . . safe night or day, wet or dry . . . comfortable and economical to drive on.

Materials Double In Value Through Escanaba Plants

BY PAUL MAY

Washington, D. C., June 10—Escanaba industries added $2,144,571 to the value of their products by the process of manufacture in 1933, according to a report made public today by the Census Bureau concerning the Escanaba industrial area.

The Escanaba survey included 18 establishments which had 563 wage earners receiving for the year's work $634,739.

The cost of materials, containers, fuel and purchased electric energy amounted to $2,061,320 but with the finished products the value had been increased to $4,205,891, showing an added value of $2,144,571.

Delta county had 34 establishments, showing a decrease from 51 in 1929. The number of wage earners dropped in the four year period from 2,928 to 1,403 wages dropped from $3,847,655 to $1,253,949, and the total value of products after manufacture from $15,815,557 to $6,472,032.

WYOMING WOLF TERROR IS OVER

Former Escanaban Gets Credit for Getting Rid of Predators

Encampment, Wyo.—There will be no more gray wolves at the door in Wyoming.

The last known gray wolf in the state was found dead, recently, in Encampment Valley. The animal died after eating poison meat.

With the passing of the last of the gray wolves old stories of their depredations were recalled.

Fifty years ago wolves were the worst problem the cattlement had to solve. In 1896, the state paid bounties of $3 each on 3,458 wolves.

Buffalo, elk, deer, antelope, and other big game were killed by the wolves. Then the beasts turned to cattle and horses.

36,161 Wolves

From 1895 to 1927 there were 36,161 wolves killed or captured in the state. In 1915, when the biological survey started work in Wyoming, there were 1,000 wolves doing damage to game and livestock estimated at $1,000,000 annually.

With the exception of Yellowstone Park, there probably are no more gray wolves in Wyoming.

A number of the wolves, killed by federal and state hunters, had notorious pasts. Notable among the wolves were: Scarface, Five-toes, Cushion Foot, Red Flash and a pair of Sheridan wolves. The most notorious wolf killer, and the one who carried the largest price on his head, was the Custer wolf.

Nine Lears of Terror

This king of the killers ranged over northeastern Wyoming and western South Dakota for nine years. During his reign of terror he killed cattle valued at more than $25,000. Finally the reward for his death increased until old wolf was carrying around a price of $500.

His mate was killed, but old Custer, cunning and sly, avoided all traps and poison. Two coyotes acted as bodyguard for the cunning old wolf and followed him as he ranged through the country.

The coyotes aways would be near him, but never ran by his side. They would follow him and feed on his kills after Custer had eaten his fill.

H. P. William, after following the wolf for six months, finally caught him in a trap and killed him.

Contest For 4-H Workers Offers Fine Prize List

A national contest in 4-H food preparation, the first ever to be held, will be conducted for the 300,000 club members enrolled this year, announces the National Committee on Boys' and Girls' club work. County, state and four sectional prizes and a grand national prize are offered. The presentations will be a feature of appropriate 4-H club events at the end of the project year.

State club leader A. G. Kettunen of East Lansing has just accepted the contest for the state from the National 4-H Committee in Chicago which will supply detailed rules at once to county and local leaders, who will cooperate in conducting the contest.

County winners will receive a handsome gold medal bearing a design symbolic of the contest and embossed upon the back with appropriate data. The state prize is a trip to the 14th National Club Congress, the annual meet for over 1200 4-H delegates and leaders. Victors in the four sectional contests will each receive a kerosene operated "Electrolux" refrigerator.

The final feature of the contest will be awarding the national champion a $400.00 cash college scholarship given with the other prizes by the Electrolux Refrigerator Division, Servel, Inc., as an incentive to the 4-H club work in food preparation and protection.

Communication

Editor, Escanaba Daily Press.

Dear Sir—I wish to use the Communication Department of your paper to call attention to two deplorable conditions now existing in Escanaba and to issue an appeal to every resident who takes pride in civic betterment, to cooperate in eliminating them.

The first is in regard to the rat nuisance which is rapidly becoming so prevalent that in a short while, unless something is done immediately, it will be almost impossible to rid business and residential districts of the pests.

The main attraction for the rodents, as everyone knows, is garbage, or rather the improper disposal of garbage.

The city of Escanaba is not to blame. In fact the city of Escanaba is doing more than its share in its program of garbage removal and cleaning of alleys. The persons at fault are those who cover their refuse with ashes and expect the city to haul it away, or those who refuse to take time to wrap garbage properly and place it in containers, as is required by city ordinance.

If every resident will take just ordinary care, and will extend the city just ordinary cooperation in this matter the nuisance will soon be considerably lessened and finally will be completely wiped out.

The second matter is in regard to school lawns. Grounds about every school were re-seeded this spring, to provide beautiful grounds about the public school buildings. There is no better means of advancing civic beautification than this. Yet, while this new grass was just beginning to grow, and ever since that time, there are adults—not children, mind you—but grown-ups, who ruthlessly cut across the grounds, trampling the grass under foot and undoing in a minute the careful work of planting and tending to the new lawns.

If Escanaba is to be made a City Beautiful, an attraction for tourists all over the country, the cooperation of every person residing in it must be given in making it a city of inviting appearance in the first place, and in the second place, of keeping it a beautiful city.

Signed: An Interested Citizen.

HERE AND THERE

WITH the greatest list of conventions on its schedule for this year, Escanaba is already being selected as the meeting place of various organizations for 1936, 1937 and even as far ahead as 1938. Because of splendid hotel facilities and an active Chamber of Commerce organization which has proven its worth in handling the details for such gatherings, Escanaba is a popular mecca for organizations who are interested in staging successful conventions. The tourist traffic and conventions bring many brand new shiny dollars to this community.

Governor Fitzgerald has signed the measure prohibiting the use of deep trapnets in Lakes Michigan and Superior. The governor, no doubt, decided that the best way to eliminate the submarine net was to begin somewhere. Through some political pressure, the Lake Huron fishing interests were successful in blocking the move to ban this fishing equipment in that region. The next legislature, it is quite certain, will be called upon to have the trapnet law include Lake Huron, or else repeal the act, which it is felt discriminates against the fishermen of Lakes Michigan and Superior.

The movement to have the federal government provide funds to make Isle Royale a national park is pretty much at a standstill. The Isle Royale National Park association, which was organized about a month ago, has hesitated to start its campaign to raise funds by private subscription, feeling it was advisable to exhaust every possibility for securing government aid first. At the present time, it is not known whether existing laws will permit the federal government to use some of its funds to acquire the island since the policy in the past has been that lands for national park purposes must be donated by state governments or individuals.

The season for swimming fatalities is close at hand. The National Safety Council has launched its usual campaign to acquaint the public with the dangers that lurk in the isolated, unprotected waters, and is stressing that swimming should be done at the beaches and pools, where lifeguards are keeping watch. No announcement has been made as yet as to whether lifeguard service will be provided at Ludington beach this summer. No doubt, such an important service can be furnished under the ERA recreational program, which will be getting under way at the municipal playgrounds soon.

LET'S STOP THIS

TWENTY members of Camp Wells at Cedar River were injured when a CCC truck collided with an automobile, driven by a Cedar River resident, early Sunday.

Several days ago, a CCC truck, filled with merry-making youths and girls of teen age, was wrecked near Sault Ste. Marie, taking a toll of life and injuries.

A couple summers ago, a CCC truck, carrying boys and girls from a country dance, overturned on the highway, north of Rapid River.

People are beginning to wonder whether there is something wrong with the manner in which CCC trucks are being handled on the public highways. A number of motorists have reported that they are filled with dread whenever they see an army motor transport approaching due to the fact that such vehicles are driven at such reckless speed.

Officials of the U. S. army, Civilian Conservation Corps, state conservation department, Forest Service or any other governmental agency that has something to say about the use of these CCC trucks might do well to do something about eliminating this nuisance. Someone should have some concern for the safety of the traveling public.

ESCANABA AND QUETTA

AN APPALLING total of 50,000 deaths by earthquake, fire and flood is the latest compilation in news despatches about the recent shaking to pieces of Quetta, India, by one of the greatest series of tremors in modern times. The exact total will never be known. The ruins, filled with the decomposing flesh of human beings, are shunned by every living thing except predators and insects.

Fifty thousand is not far from the number of people killed or seriously injured annually in America's automobile accidents. Since comparatively few are killed or maimed in a single day, we fail to get excited over the record. Nor is there more than a mild interest hereabouts in the Quetta disaster. Quetta is too far away, and most Americans had never heard of it.

The doomed city was bigger than three Escanabas. If this city were suddenly wiped out by fire or quake, what would be the reaction throughout America and other countries? People in other lands would be no more interested ou our destruction than we are in Quetta's. In America the reaction probably would be something like this: "Escanaba? Where is that? Isn't it too bad, and what's the score today?"

So let us remember Quetta if we can—but of course we can't—and be humble. The proudest of mankind is at the mercy of a casual pin-prick or wind-puff. "Here today and gone tomorrow" fits us all, whether we live in Quetta or Escanaba. The man or woman who reflects on far-away India's disaster of last week must agree that the virtue of humility is worth cultivating.

TECHNICAL TANGLE

THE way in which the law will go all the way around Robin Hood's barn to nail down a seemingly unimportant point occasionally impresses the layman as foolish. But now and then a court case pops up to prove that this extreme care with obscure details is necessary.

An example was furnished recently by an accident to a longshoreman at Port Huron, Mich. This man was on a ship, helping to unload it, when he was struck by a swinging boom, a flying cable, or something, and knocked off the deck onto the dock and injured.

He sued the steamship line for compensation under the longshoremen's act; and the owners replied that he should sue under the Michigan compensation act, since he was hurt, not aboard ship, but when he hit the dock—on Michigan soil, under the jurisdiction of Michigan laws!

When a seemingly simple case can develop a technicality like that, it is evident that there is a sound reason for the extreme complexity of legal language.

THE PAGAN MR. BRISBANE

"ANGELS, looking down, probably pay little attention to our difficulties."—Arthur Brisbane.

In this sentence Mr. Brisbane seems to predicate a high place, and possibly one very far away, from which celestial beings look down pityingly and not very concernedly on poor mortals.

His assumption is in line with that of many who think of heaven as a place beyond the clouds somewhere, in which a big man with long whiskers sits on a throne, surrounded by the celestial beings aforesaid.

It may be in order to call Mr. Brisbane's attention to the teaching of orthodox Christianity and Judaism that God is everywhere. Possibly, too, it may be consistent to think of the Deity as accompanied by angelic hosts. Thus there really can be no getting away from the conclusion that the angels are ever present or at least not far away, and, we hope, ready to give us good counsel when we need or ask for it.

Frankly, this column believes in the guardian angel theory. If it isn't exactly based on common sense there is at least some comfort in it. After all, what place is there in the scheme of things for an absentee angel?

As one member of the craft to another, we offer these conclusions to Mr. Brisbane for what they are worth. For two thousand years we have been trying to get away from idols of wood and stone, from totems and magic and the anthropomorphic gods of paganism, to a better understanding of an ever-present, ever-working Creator. Is there any real comfort in the concept, angelic though it be, of the pagan Mr. Brisbane?

When a couple of bores get together, it's a case of an I for an I.

As Pittsburgher went out his front door, slamming it, his house collapsed. That should teach his wife not to irritate him.

Government is moving toward payment of New York's Civil War claims. From what we've heard of federal red tape, the city's to be congratulated.

CHAPTER XXIX

Sally said furiously, "I don't understand it. I simply don't get it at all!" She glared at the inoffensive Tips and at Clarence, stooped and graying, in the background.

"You say he said he was going to the city?" Sally demanded.

Clarence nodded. They had been over the ground several times before, but if the young lady wanted to ask the same questions over and over he had no choice but to answer them.

"He say he goin' to the city," Clarence elaborated, with a sidelong roll of chocolate eyes in a dark face. "He say fo' me to lock up."

"And that was day before yesterday?"

"Yes'm. In the evenin'. We ain't heard nothing from him since."

Sally waved an afternoon newspaper in his eyes. "Have you seen this?"

"No'm. Ain't seen nothin'." Clarence's eyes executed a sudden roll of apprehension. "They ain't nothin' in it 'bout Mist' Michael, is they?"

Sally laughed—an unpleasant laugh, drawing back the corners of her lips from small predatory teeth.

"Read it."

Tips bent over. "Pa can't read," he said. "Lessen he has a magnifying glass. His eyes is bad."

"What do it say?" Clarence wanted to know.

* * *

Tips bent over the newspaper, reading slowly. "It says how Mister Michael is a lord or something," he said slowly. "It says how his daddy was a son of a lord in England or Ireland—and now Mister Michael, seems he comes into the business."

"Exactly." Sally Moon, with a sound that was more like a snort than the sarcastic laugh she had intended, slipped down into the shabby porch chair. Over her linked, gloved hands she regarded the two shabby men.

"I believe you two know more about this than you pretend to," she said on a note of angry suspicion. "I believe you perfectly well know where Michael is."

"No'm." Clarence shook his head.

"Well, I'm going to find out," Sally said swiftly. Before either one of them could stop her she had flung herself inside the door of Michael's house. "I'm going to search his papers," she said. "And don't either of you interfere!"

She was inside the room which had served Michael as a bedroom before either one could say a word. Tips looked at his father, and the older man looked back apprehensively.

"She ain't got a bit o' business in there," the boy said humbly.

"How we goin' to stop her?" Clarence wanted to know.

Sally went through bureau drawers like a whirlwind. The neat, plain, bare chamber did not afford many hiding places. A bed, tidily made up with a mended white spread, a common oak chest of drawers, a wardrobe with one of the old-fashioned doors swinging wide—she went through them all.

There was little enough. There was pitifully little. A handful of old letters with the postmark of a little town in a western state. A thick, clumsy old gold watch. A button box.

Sally riffled through the letters. The stable boy came to the door to stare at her.

"You go away, Tips," she said crossly. "Don't you bother me. This is my business."

"Ain't nobody got any right buttin' into Mister Michael's private things," he said stubbornly. But he dared not interfere. After all, she was the girl his employer had been engaged to marry.

Clarence had shuffled out into the kitchen. You could hear him rattling pots and pans and setting down the cups with angry gusto. Sally paid no attention to all this. She had come with a determination to go through Michael's belongings, to see if she could find any clue to his disappearance. She flounced into the living room after a busy five minutes, a small bundle in her hand.

* * *

Tips watched her go, open-mouthed. His father came out of the kitchen to ask him, "That her car goin' away?"

"That's it," Tips sniffed, going into Michael's room and picking up a cushion Sally had dropped in her haste. "She sure made a mess of this here place. She sure is a big-talking young lady, Miss Moon."

"Her!" Clarence uttered contemptuously. "Ain't no Moons ever goin' to come high-tonin' me. I know 'em."

"She taken away a lot of stuff of Mist' Michael's," Tips offered hesitantly. "Letters and such."

Clarence grinned, an old man's wide, sly grin. His lips were stretched incongruously wide. "She did, huh?"

"Yes, suh!" The stable boy was emphatic. "Looks like Mist Michael run away from her while the runnin' was good. What you think about it?"

His father lifted his shoulders in an eloquent shrug. "Boy, I ain't mindin' nobody's business."

"You think we better stay on a while?" Tips said.

"Where'd we go, anyways?" Clarence demanded. "You talk crazy, sonny-boy. Course we're stayin'. And, case that girl comes back here lookin' some more, we goin' to lock up this here place."

He turned the key in the lock and went back to his leisurely puttering among the kettles. Tips wandered out into the stableyard, fed the horses and idly swept up some scattered hay. In the kitchen, behind the red checked curtains, an old man took out an official-looking paper and chuckled over it.

"Here's somethin' that big-talkin' young lady ain't goin' to find," Clarence said to himself. "'Cause I got it first. An' it's Mist' Michael's private business."

It was the marriage certificate of Michael Heatheroe and Katharine Strykhurst.

* * *

Sally rushed to her room and opened the letters she had found in Michael's bureau. They were not very interesting letters. There were several notes from the bank about the mortgage. There was a bill of sale for a mare. There were one or two brief and badly written, personal letters from a man in Montana—a man who signed himself quite simply

FENCES

A wistful boy went by today
A yard where other children play,
And watched the ball game just a minute.
I hope there was no great harm in it.
Although the bundle that he bore
Some fretful woman waited for,
And had to do awhile without it,
And even called the boss about it.

Well, there are boys who play at ball,
And some who never play at all;
For, so it seems, it was decided
Long, long ago, the world divided,
Yes, even just a world of boys:
Some with the toil, some with the toys,
Some running through the fields of clover,
Some by the fence, just looking over.

The wistful boy went on his way,
And nothing I could think to say.
And yet perhaps the youngster wonders
If someone somewhere somehow blunders?
If there is maybe something wrong,
The way the old world rolls along?
Perhaps that question fluttered through him—
Perhaps you can explain it to him.

Boys Pick Lindy; Girls Want To Be Shirley Temples

New York, June 9 (AP)—Charles A. Lindbergh and Shirley Temple are today's leading hero and heroine—so far as American boys and girls are concerned, a survey by a juvenile newspaper shows.

Voting for the person they would like to be, the boys chose the aviator, with Admiral Byrd second. The little movie star was the girls' favorite, followed by Amelia Earhart.

Most of the boys seem to have dropped that once familiar aim of becoming president, for President Roosevelt ranked sixth in the tabulation of the boys' ballots which ran in this order:

Lindbergh, Byrd, Babe Ruth, Dizzy Dean, Will Rogers, President Roosevelt, Tom Mix, Jackie Cooper, Eddie Cantor, Henry Ford, Charles E. Hughes, Johnny Weissmuller, John D. Rookefeller, Albert Einstein, Herbert Hoover.

Some of the girls would like to be men. Here are their favorites:

Shirley Temple, Miss Earhart, Mrs. Roosevelt, Katharine Hepburn, Admiral Byrd, Helen Jacobs, Walter Damrosch, Norma Shearer, Colonel Lindbergh, Frances Perkins, Johnny Weissmuller, Will Rogers, President Roosevelt, Eddie Cantor, Tom Mix.

Boys On Tandem Reach Escanaba

In about two months, Harold Richard, 17, and James Oliver, 19, both of Brantford, Ont., expect to be in Vancouver, B. C., if their tandem bicycle holds out. They reached Escanaba Tuesday on their route through the peninsula, after having been held up by border customs officials at Sault Ste. Marie for more than a week.

The delay at the Soo was caused by the fact that the boys had only $3.40 between them, and customs officials needed more assurance than that that the pair would not become public charges in the United States. After they produced a ten-dollar bill they were allowed to get on their way.

Old pencil stubs, turned in when new ones are requisitioned, are collected at the Albany telephone company and sent to the children of the Albany orphans' home.

Announcement Made Of Scholarships, Awards At Honor Day Program

With the announcement of the various scholarships and awards as the highlight, seniors of Escanaba high school presented their class and honor day program at the W. W. Oliver memorial auditorium before a capacity crowd yesterday afternoon.

The six juniors are: Jack Foster, Miriam Lund, Gertrude Lutz, Tom O'Connell, Mary Jane Riley and Bernice Welter.

History and Will

The program opened with the processional of the seniors to the music of the high school band under the direction of R. P. Bowers. The class history was presented with Betty Chynoweth, Eileen Demars, Helen Schram and Doris Thorin consulting Vivian Godin, a crystal gazer who brings back scenes and incidents which happened during the four years of high school life. The class will was read by Abraham Stein, Olive May Riegel and Allan Beck, lawyers for the class of 1935, impersonated by Clayton Butler. John Banks was the doctor, and Marjorie Kolb the nurse. Betty Babcock and William Beckstrom were also on the committee.

How to Display American Flag

The Lewis Cass chapter of the Daughters of American Revolution has furnished the Press with a list of rules concerning the proper manner of displaying the American Flag.

In view of the fact that Flag Day will be observed Friday, June 14, the Press is publishing the rules in the interests of good citizenship. The list follows:

There are certain fundamental rules of heraldry which, if understood generally, would indicate the proper method of displaying the flag. The matter becomes a very simple one if it is kept in mind that the National Flag represents the living country and is itself considered as a living thing. The union of the flag is the honor point; the right arm is the sword arm, and therefore the point of danger and hence the place of honor.

1. The Flag should be displayed only from sunrise to sunset, or between such hours as may be designated by proper authority. It should be displayed on national and state holidays and on historic and special occasions. The Flag should always be hoisted briskly and lowered slowly and ceremoniously.

2. When carried in a procession with another flag or flags, the Flag of the United States should be either on the marching right, i. e., the Flag's own right, or when there is a line of other flags the Flag of the United States may be in front of the center of that line.

3. When displayed with another flag against a wall from crossed staffs, the Flag of the United States should be on the right, the Flag's own right, and its staff should be in front of the staff of the other flag.

4. When a number of flags are grouped and displayed from staffs, the Flag of the United States should be in the center or at the highest point of the group.

5. When flags of States or cities or pennants of societies are flown on the same halyard with the Flag of the United States, the National Flag should always be at the peak. When flown from adjacent staffs, the Flag of the United States should be hoisted first. No flag or pennant should be placed above or to the right of the Flag of the United States.

6. When flags of two or more nations are displayed they should be flown from separate staffs of the same height and the flags should be of approximately equal size. (International usage forbids the display of the flag of one nation above that of another nation in time of peace.)

7. When the Flag is displayed from a staff projecting horizontally or at an angle from the window sill, balcony, or front of building, the union of the Flag should go clear to the head of the staff unless the flag is at half mast.

8. When the Flag of the United States is displayed in a manner other than by being flown from a staff it should be displayed flat, whether indoors or out. When displayed either horizontally or vertically against a wall, the union should be uppermost and to the Flag's own right, i. e., to the observer's left. When displayed in a window it should be displayed the same way, that is, with the union or blue field to the left of the observer in the street. When festoons, rosettes, or drapings of blue, white and red are desired, bunting should be used, but never the flag.

9. When displayed over the middle of the street, as between buildings, the Flag of the United States should be suspended vertically with the union to the north in an east-and-west street or to the east in a north-and-south street.

10. When used on a speaker's platform, the Flag should be displayed above and behind the speaker. It should never be used to cover the speaker's desk nor to drape over the front of the platform. If flown from a staff it should be on the speaker's right.

11. When used in unveiling a statue or monument, the Flag should not be allowed to fall to the ground but should be carried aloft to wave out, forming a distinctive feature during the remainder of the ceremony.

12. When flown at half staff, the Flag is first hoisted to the peak and then lowered to the half staff position, but before lowering the Flag for the day it is raised again to the peak. On Memorial Day, May 30th, the Flag is displayed at half staff from sunrise until noon and at full staff from noon until sunset, for the Nation lives and the Flag is the symbol of the living Nation.

13. When used to cover a casket the Flag should be placed so that the union is at the head and over the left shoulder. The Flag should not be lowered into the grave nor allowed to touch the ground. The casket should be carried foot first.

14. When the Flag is displayed in church it should be from a staff placed on the congregation's right as they face the clergyman. The service flag, the state flag, or other flag should be at the left of the congregation. If in the chancel, the Flag of the United States should be placed on the clergyman's right as he faces the congregation and other flags on his left.

15. When the Flag is in such a condition that it is no longer a fitting emblem for display it should not be cast aside or used in any way that might be viewed as disrespectful to the national colors, but should be destroyed as a whole, privately, preferably by burning or by some other method in harmony with the reverence and respect we owe to the emblem representing our country.

CAUTIONS

1. Do not permit disrespect to be shown to the Flag of the United States.

2. Do not dip the Flag of the United States to any person or any thing. The regimental color, state flag, organization or institutional flag will render this honor.

3. Do not display the Flag of the United States with the union down except as a signal of distress.

4. Do not place any other flag or pennant above or to the right of the Flag of the United States.

5. Do not let the Flag of the United States touch the ground or trail in the water.

6. Do not place any object or emblem of any kind on or above the Flag of the United States.

7. Do not use the Flag as drapery in any form whatever. Use bunting of blue, white and red.

8. Do not fasten the Flag in such manner as will permit it to be easily torn.

9. Do not drape the Flag over the hood, top, sides or back of a vehicle, or of a railroad train or boat. When the Flag is displayed on a motor car, the staff should be affixed firmly to the chassis or clamped to the radiator cap.

10. Do not display the Flag on a float in a parade except from a staff.

11. Do not use the Flag as a covering for a ceiling.

12. Do not use the Flag as a portion of a costume or of an athletic uniform. Do not embroider it upon cushions or handkerchiefs or print it on paper napkins or boxes.

13. Do not put lettering of any kind upon the Flag.

14. Do not use the Flag in any form of advertising nor fasten an advertising sign to a pole from which the Flag of the United States is flying.

15. Do not display, use or store the Flag in such a manner as will permit it to be easily soiled or damaged.

PROPER USE OF BUNTING

Bunting of the national colors should be used for covering a speaker's desk, draping over the front of a platform and for decoration in general. Bunting should be arranged with the blue above, the white in the middle and the red below.

SALUTE TO THE FLAG

During the ceremony of hoisting or lowering the Flag or when the Flag is passing in a parade or in a review, all persons present should face the Flag, stand at attention and salute. Those present in uniform should render the right-hand salute. When not in uniform, men should remove the headdress with the right hand and hold it at the left shoulder. Women should salute by placing the right hand over the heart. The salute to the Flag in the moving column is rendered at the moment the Flag passes.

When the National Anthem is played those present in uniform should salute at the first note of the anthem, retaining this position until the last note of the anthem. When not in uniform, men should remove the headdress and hold it as in the salute to the Flag. Women should render the salute as to the Flag. When there is no Flag displayed, all should face toward the music.

WHY AMERICA PREFERS BUDWEISER...

WEBSTER'S DICTIONARY DEFINES IT—and its taste tells you why

BUDWEISER must be famous indeed to be chosen from all American beers for mention in Webster's New International Dictionary, just published. You'll find it on page 349.

Here is just another distinction for the fine beer that has won medal after medal at world's fairs for more than half a century. Bohemia, in 1903, officially adjudged BUDWEISER the finest bottled beer on Earth, better even than native brews. France, as early as 1832, conceded BUDWEISER's superiority. The following is from the Paris Gazette:

"Experts reluctantly pronounced the St. Louis beer superior to any malt liquor ever drunk upon the continent and all Paris is now seeking to quaff the American nectar."

Camp Fire Girls Observe Jelly Week

SUPPLY AND DEMAND: As ultimate consumer, one of these Camp Fire Girls is making great inroads on the strawberry supply by snitching a ripe, fat one out of the colander every few minutes.

Her companion, who is industriously hulling the berries, is more far-sighted. She wants to have her jam as well as her strawberries, so she's going to make a batch of sliced strawberry jam to celebrate National Jelly-Making Week, June 17th to 22nd, and perhaps win her Home-making Honors.

Here is the recipe they are using, so simple that the most inexperienced jam maker cannot fail:

Sliced Strawberry Jam
4½ cups (2 lbs.) prepared fruit
7 cups (3 lbs.) sugar
½ bottle fruit pectin

To prepare fruit, cut about 2 quarts fully ripe berries in halves lengthwise; large berries in quarters. Measure sugar and prepared fruit into large kettle, mix well, and bring to a full rolling boil over hottest fire. Stir constantly before and while boiling. Boil hard 3 minutes. Remove from fire and stir in bottled fruit pectin. Then stir and skim by turns for just 5 minutes to cool slightly, to prevent floating fruit. Pour quickly. Paraffin hot jam at once. Makes about 10 glasses (6 fluid ounces each).

Rev. Father Philip de Neri Jutras, celebrant of the nuptial high mass, also reading the impressive marriage service.

The bride's attendant was Miss Marie Boucher, a close friend of the bride and John Lynough brother of the bridegroom, was best man.

Led by E. J. Hancock, publisher of Greensburg, Ind., the program that followed the great picnic dinner developed into a testimonial session in praise of the Sault as a hay fever haven.

Theatres

"G MEN" AT THE DELFT

Once again First National Pictures has combined the dual purpose of providing fine entertainment, and at the same time rendering patriotic service by showing, on the screen, a vivid story of a branch of the United States Government.

In "Here Comes the Navy," and again in "Devil Dogs of the Air," James Cagney was the star of pictures that have done an infinite amount of good by making America take real pride in its fighting forces.

Now, First National Pictures again utilizes that dynamic young star to tell the first story ever screened of the Department of Justice agents' war on organized crime.

This exciting, thrilling, yet intensely gripping drama, "G Men" had its local premiere yesterday at the Delft theater. It is a tremendous picture, and should certainly be of inestimable value in rallying public opinion to the support of the G Men—which is the term applied to Department of Justice operatives.

The story, written by Gregory Rogers, was based on headlines that have screamed across the first pages of the nation's newspapers for the past three years, and many of the incidents are recognizable to everyone, although neither the correct names or localities are used.

"G Men" is more than a thrilling melodrama—it is history as re-enacted for the screen.

James Cagney is the Department of Justice agent around whom most of the action evolves. He it is who traps the Mad Dog of the Gangs, the killer whom no jail could hold, and exterminates him in a rendezvous with death.

In and out of the underworld, these G Men roam—dying and taking life, that civilized society might live safely.

Cagney has never given a better characterization, nor one that gained for him a great amount of audience sympathy. He is good, too, in the lighter side of the picture as well as in a romance with Margaret Lindsay who portrays the role of the sister of Cagney's boss, a part played by Robert Armstrong.

Ann Dvorak, who also has a leading role as the wife of Public Enemy No. 1, has another opportunity to sing and dance. She leads a chorus of dancing beauties in a night club scene, and her song, especially written by the famous song writing team of Fain and Kahal, will probably be one of the season's big hits.

Today's Recipe

Two recipes, one for German potato dumplings, which is a grandmother's original recipe and one for groom's cake, have been received through the kindness of Mrs. Alex Sly. The dumpling recipe has been used by her for the past twenty years.

German Potato Dumplings

Two cupfuls mashed cooked potatoes, left-over potatoes may be used.
One tablespoon butter
One tablespoon finely minced onion
One egg
Three-fourths cup sifted flour
One and one-half teaspoons salt
One-eighth teaspoon pepper
One cup one-fourth inch cubes of bread, fried in butter or bacon fat.

To hot mashed potatoes, add butter, then cool.

Add onion and egg, and mix thoroughly with a fork. Sift in flour, salt and pepper and blend well. Make into twelve balls the size of an egg, forming each around four or five cubes of bread. Cook in gently boiled water for seven minutes. Lift dumplings and place them around on a large platter, sprinkling the dumplings with fine bread crumbs which have been browned in a frying pan with a small amount of butter.

Groom's Cake

One cup butter
Two cups sugar
Four eggs
One-half cup orange juice
One-half cup grape juice

One cup chopped dates.
One cup chopped candied orange peel
One-fourth cup chopped candied pineapple
One-half cup chopped pecans
One-half cup chopped red cherries

One-half teaspoon soda

Cream butter, add sugar and mix well. Add rest of ingredients blending thoroughly. Pour into two loaf cake pans, lined with four thicknesses of waxed paper. Bake three hours in a very slow oven. If preferred this may be cooked in a tube pan.

Luce County Farming Land in Big Demand

Newberry, June 11.—While scores of Michigan farmers are turning eyes to the fertile Matanuska Valley of southern Alaska in search of a new farm paradise, many others are finding a new land of promise in Luce county.

Over 800 acres of the Sage River area have been taken up by eastern Upper Peninsula farmers in lots of 40 and 80 acres during the past year, according to a representative of the Dairyman's State Bank of Kewaunee, Wis., which owns most of lands west of the west branch of the Sage River.

Much of the land, which is of a burned-over marshy nature, has been cleared during the past few months and about 30 per cent of it has been planted to seed this spring. Farm buildings have sprung up on most of the plots and a general enthusiasm prevails.

Land Is Fertile

The area, which was part of a so-called "land reclamation" project about a score years ago, is said to be one of the most fertile farming regions in the peninsula. It is especially adapted for the raising of hay and grain, according to the settlers who have taken up land in the region. The land consists more of a rich clay and muck loam.

Some twenty years ago a project known as the "Sweeney Drainage Project" was launched in the area to reclaim the Sage low lands and bring them under agriculture. Wide publicity was given the project and a wild land boom was anticipated. But, despite the obvious agricultural value of the region, the land boom failed to materialize.

Sheep Ranch Started

A sheep ranch was started in the region by a venturesome settler, but depredations on the flocks by wolves and coyotes forced the abandonment of the venture within the year.

A modern ten-room farm home and a number of out buildings soon crumbled into ruin and only a few rotted walls remain in a brush and weeds grown clearing as a reminder of the wild hopes of years ago.

The area, covered by a matted growth of underbrush and second-growth timber, which probably served to discourage earlier cultivation of the region, was burned over a few years ago and can now be cleared with comparative ease.

The new settlers of which there are about 20, are, for the majority, young men, many of them under 30 years of age. They are all experienced farmers and are confident that, with proper breaks from Nature, this fall will see the land produce a bumper crop.

STEAMER INCA GOES AGROUND

Half of Boat's Cargo of Cement Is Tossed Overboard

The steamer Inca with a cargo of 9,000 barrels of cement from Buffington, Ind., part of which was destined for the highway construction on the relocation of US-2 here went aground on the roof at Pointe Aux Barques in the fog about six o'clock on Sunday evening. The vessel was still aground at noon yesterday with coast guard vessels standing by to lend any possible assistance. The Inca is about one mile off shore and about eleven miles from the Manistique harbor.

The coast guard cutter Escanaba arrived here at midnight on Monday and the Plum Island coast guard boat is also lending aid. An unsuccessful attempt was made to free the vessel with the aid of the government vessel Manitowoc and now a tug and lighter from Green Bay are expected to come to the vessel's aid.

In the storm on Monday morning, it was said, about half of the vessel's cargo had been tossed overboard in an effort to free her. William Sellman salvaged between five and six hundred sacks of cement from the Inca.

The Inca seems to be hung up on a rock about amidships and has developed a list although there was no water in her hold on Monday morning.

BY FRANK MAC MILLEN
(Associated Press Financial Writer)

New York, June 11 (AP)—The bull team today swept the stock market bears aside and crossed the goal line to new high territory for 1935 for the second successive session.

Rail shares, laggards in early dealings when industrials were the leaders, came up toward the close to head the advance. Gains of major fractions to 2 points or more were common enough in both these divisions.

Utilities too, got ahead, but on a more conservative scale, as traders and investors awaited the senate vote on the Dieterich amendment to the utility bill. Defeat of the amendment was not announced until after the end of trading.

The Associated Press average for 60 stocks, rising .7 of a point to 43.6, was accompanied to new high ground by the 30 industrials included in the compilation, up .7 of a cent at 59.9, and by the 15 utilities at 31.3, up .5 of a point. The 15 rails, despite a lift of .8 of a point at 23.3, were still well below the year's best of 27.6. The industrials, however, are within striking distance of the peak for 1934, at 61.4.

American Crystal Sugar gained a following for both its common and preferred issues again as a stockholders' meeting ratified a plan for recapitalization.

The preferred was 3 points up at 125, while the common at 17 1/4 was 1 3/4 higher. Others getting ahead major fractions to around 2 points included Union Pacific at 103 1/2, American Sugar at 60 1/4, Great Western Sugar at 30 7-8, Allied Chemical at 153, Santa Fe at 42 7-8, International Harvester at 42, Baltimore & Ohio at 11 1/2, Great Northern preferred at 18, Chrysler at 47 1/4, Louisville & Nashville at 41 3/4 and Loew's at 41 7-8.

Detroit Edison was up 3 points at 86, and Columbian Carbon nearly 4 at 92 1-8.

IT was a momentous event when, on Sept. 15, 1821, the old Capitania General de Guatemala, composed of the provinces of Guatemala, El Salvador, Honduras, Nicaragua, and Costa Rica, declared its independence from Spain and formed a federation. But shortly dissension arose and the provinces separated. Then came trouble in Nicaragua and the Department of Nicoya sought refuge in the neighboring country of Costa Rica, where peace and prosperity ruled.

So, despite its own government's claims, Nicoya seceded and became part of Costa Rica in 1824. Commemorating the 100th anniversary of this event, Costa Rica in 1924 issued two types of stamps, one of which, shown here, displayed a map of the province of Nicoya. The other showed a landscape of the city.

CHICAGO GRAIN

Chicago, June 11—The bullish government forecast as to winter wheat production fell flat as a grain market influence today and prices declined fractionally in a light trade.

The federal statisticians' estimate that the 1935 domestic winter wheat crop would reach 441,000,000 bushels compared with 405,000,000 produced last year was a failure marketwise because many traders refused to believe the result would be that small. The estimate was 28,000,000 below the average of five private authorities' forecasts.

After an opening display of firmness wheat closed unchanged to 3-8 cents below the previous finish, July 81 to 81 1-8 and corn was unchanged to 3-8 off, July 81 7-8 to 82. Oats lost 1/4 to 3-4, rye 3-8 to 7-8 and barley was unchanged.

A Chicago crop expert reported from southwestern Indiana that some corn fields were backward and weedy and marked red dust infestation appeared in wheat. Dry, warm weather is urgently needed, he said.

Corn largely followed the action of wheat.

The government forecasts as to oats and rye was more bearish than the private reports.

Provisions were steady to firm, a late rally in lard being attributed to removal of hedges against moderate cash sales.

New York, June 11 (AP)—The corporate bond market moved up impressively today under the spur of a rush of buying among low-priced railroad issues.

Attempted explanations of the rapid rise in the carriers varied greatly, but the 3 4/8 percent increase in net operating income of class one roads in April and indications of substantially larger crops as well as improvement in general business conditions received prominent mention.

Advances ranging from 1 to 4 points were turned in by Nickel Plate 6s at 63 1/2, Cotton Belt 4s at 82 1/2, Baltimore & Ohio 4 1/2s at 50 1/4, Central Pacific 5s at 81 1/2 and Southern Railway 4s at 40 7-8. There were many others improving a point or so.

Among issues working higher were Bethlehem Steel 5s at 107 3/4, International Paper 5s at 71 3/4, Columbia Gas 5s at 88 and Federal Light and Traction 5s at 94. Bonds of the Postal Telegraph Co. dropped 1 3-8 points as rumors cropped up again that a reorganization was in prospect. International Telephone 5s, however, were up 3-4 at 65 3/4.

Trading in government bonds was extremely dull.

Foreign bonds were upset by a sinking spell in French government bonds which dropped 2 to 3 1/2 points on small offerings.

Summer Sweethearts

"Bill." Nothing incriminating, nothing to point the way Michael had gone.

Sally stood staring at the letters in bafflement and anger. Her temperament demanded that she expend energy on someone. So she dressed herself in plain dark silk and boarded a train for the city. The clipping about Michael's inheritance lay in the smart dark blue handbag.

She went straight to Mr. Downrigg's hotel and that gentleman came down to the foyer to meet her. He was a lean, elderly Englishman with a stoop and a courteous, tired voice. No, he hadn't had any communication from Mr. Heatheroe as yet. And that was odd because Messrs. Malley & Gerhardt had assured him Michael was easily to be found. All his telephone calls on the day before had been fruitless. Mr. Heatheroe, the servants said, was away and it was not known when he would return.

"Something's happened then," Sally announced firmly. "Something happened to Michael the night he came into New York." She saw it all now. She had been stupid to be so frightened and angry. Of course Michael had been hurt. He had no reason on earth to run away on the eve of this triumph.

Her manner softened perceptibly. She had met Mr. Downrigg with an air of challenge, thinking he knew something about the absent Michael, thinking, perhaps, he had aided and abetted him in his escape.

"You must help me," she said, her voice taking on its cooing note. "We must search the hospitals—the morgues—"

"My dear young woman!" shuddered Mr. Downrigg. "Surely you don't think—"

She was firm, but to show him how deeply she was affected by the thought of Michael injured or dead she wept a little, quite prettily and convincingly.

"We must," she said. "We dare not do otherwise. After all," she reminded him, with a liquid glance of those dark, opaque eyes, "I'm his promised wife, you know."

She could see herself telling the story to newspaper reporters. Dead or alive, Michael should not escape her.

Detroit Tigers Lose Twin Bill to Boston Sox

BENGALS FAIL WITH MEN ON

Grove Wins Opener, 3-1; Ferrell Cops Nightcap, 5 to 2

Detroit, June 11 (AP)—The Boston Red Sox turned in some snappy fielding and timely hitting behind Robert "Lefty" Grove and Wesley Ferrell this afternoon to take both ends of a double-header from Detroit, 3 to 1 in the opener, and 5 to 2 in the nightcap.

Grove, the old "fireball" pitcher, turned in a five-hit performance in the first game to beat Lefty Joe Sullivan, and his teammate pitched another five-hitter in the after-piece to get the decision over Alvin Crowder.

The Sox climbed on Sullivan for three doubles by Roy Johnson, Carl Reynolds and Oscar Melillo in the second frame to settle the issue in the opener. Johnson added another tally with an eighth inning homer. A double by Rogell and a single by Hayworth accounted for the lone Detroit run.

While Grove allowed no walks, Ferrell gave up six, but he tightened up in the pinches. The Sox ran up four runs in the first five innings, including a homer by Wes Ferrell with Brother Rick aboard in the second. Williams homered in the fifth. Detroit got two runs in the eighth and ninth, and with the bases loaded in the last frame, failed to jam over the tying runs.

Hoffman Hollers For Hand Picked Referee

BY EDWARD J. NEIL
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

New York, June 11 (AP)—The inevitable holler about referees broke out today to spice the preliminary maneuvering—and incidentally keep interest alive—in Max Baer's heavyweight title defense against Jimmy Braddock in Madison Square Garden's bowl on Long Island Thursday night.

Ancil Hoffman, manager of the champion, tore into the New York state athletic commission today and demanded that one of his list of five eligibles be named.

With equal speed and no little uproar the commission promptly sat him down.

There was a very definite tongue-in-the-cheek aspect to Hoffman's nominees, for his first choice was George Blake of Los Angeles, who happens to be several thousand miles away in Honolulu at the moment, considerable of a hurdle to overcome in 48 hours. The second was Gene Tuney, former heavyweight champion, who has no referee's license. Another was Lt. Jack Kennedy, another Pacific coast arbiter who might have trouble getting here. The other pair were Ed Dickerson of Grand Rapids, Mich., and Lt. Commander Jess Kenworthy, naval officer stationed at Washington, D. C.

Hoffman is certain to bar Arthur Donovan, who refereed the night Baer won the title on an 11 round technical knockout of Primo Carnera a year ago.

While Hoffman has forgotten that Donovan twice stopped Baer from hitting Carnera while the Italian was down—thus keeping Max from losing automatically on a foul—the referee's score card had five rounds scored for each man at the end of the 10th. Hoffman insists Baer won every round.

"If Donovan is in the ring," Baer said as he rested at Asbury Park, taking only the lightest exercises, "I'll walk right out."

Hoffman, more composed, said he didn't know what he would do if Donovan was named.

Joe Gould, manager of Braddock, whose workout consisted only of a rubdown, said anybody who could count ten would suit him as referee.

Very Little Betting

The commissioners asked today where the $2,500 forfeits were that the fighters were supposed to post with them several weeks ago. Hoffman was ready to write them a check immediately, but Gould paled, like his fighter, a recent fugitive from the relief rolls, Gould is a little short of money.

"I guess I'll have to bring Braddock down here and leave him in hock with you," he told the commission.

The commission waived the point.

There was little betting, with odds varying widely. Quotations averaged about 5 to 1 on Baer to win somehow. Both appear to be in excellent condition.

There is considerable feeling, though, that if Braddock can stand off the champion's early rushes he stands an even chance of methodically poking Baer around for fifteen rounds to win the decision.

BEYER HAS FINE THINCLAD SQUAD

Rockford Track Mentor Is Relative of Coach Weingartner

Rock, Mich., June 11.—An article of much interest to local sport fans concerning Charles (Ikey) Beyer of Rockford, Ill., appeared in a recent edition of the Green Bay Press Gazette in a column entitled Looking Up, written by John Walter.

Beyer, who is athletic director and track and field coach at Rockford high school, is well known here having visited last summer at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Weingartner. He is an uncle of Mrs. Weingartner.

The article in the Green Bay paper reads in part:

"Not so long ago this column carried an interview with Charles (Ikey) Beyer, former Green Bay East and Lawrence college athlete who now coaches the Rockford, Ill., high school track and field squad in addition to serving as athletic director.

"Possibly no American high school ever exceeded the 1935 record of Beyer's crack athletes. This season Rockford won dual meets from Elgin and Freeport, swept to the title of the Maplewood relays at St. Louis, turned back the cream of Illinois competition in the state meet at Champaign, May 28, won first place in the Big Seven conference, captured its ninth consecutive Northwest Illinois district title at Freeport, and took the championship of the historic Gateway Classic meet at Clinton, Iowa, regarded as the outstanding prep meet of the midwest.

"The former Green Bay athlete has given the Illinois city a track team of which its citizens will boast as long as athletes represent Rockford high school."

One of Beyer's most prominent proteges this year is Capt. Bob Packard, a sprinter, who runs a ten flat century and rips off the 220 yard dash in the remarkable time of :21.6.

CHICAGO SPLITS WITH SENATORS

Washington Wins Opener by 9-8; Sox Capture Nightcap, 9-3

Chicago, June 11. (AP)—The White Sox divided a doubleheader with Washington before 10,000 fans today, winning the second game 9 to 3, after losing the free-hitting opener, 9 to 8.

Al Simmons, the White Sox $27,500 a year outfielder, snapped out of the protracted slump that had tumbled his average to .250, to lead the Chicagoans' clouting with five hits, including a homer with the bases filled in the first game and a homer with two on in the second game.

Simmons' four-run homer off relief pitcher Bob Burke in the opener was the climax of a five-run seventh inning rally that tied the score at 8-all after Carl Fischer, the Chicago starting pitcher, had been knocked out by a six run bombardment in the second inning. Les Tietje, who had relieved Fischer, weakened in the eighth, however, and Washington pushed over the winning run.

Ray Phelps, former Brooklyn hurler, made his first start for the Chicagoans in the second game and scattered seven hits effectively. Meanwhile, his mates blasted Henry Coppola for nine hits and seven runs in five innings, topping the charge with a five run fifth.

The Browns also got away to a lead in the second game but Vito Tamulis steadied, and with the Yanks connecting with eleven hits off four St. Louis hurlers, chalked up his sixth triumph of the season as compared to one defeat. He also contributed a homer as did Bill Dickey.

LANDIS STUDIES CONVICT'S CASE

"Alabama" Pitts Appeals Ruling Barring Him As Player

Chicago, June 11 (AP)—Kenesaw Mountain Landis, the one man supreme court of organized baseball, today opened an investigation into the case of Edwin "Alabama" Pitts, former Sing Sing prison athlete, who has been barred from the game by a minor league ruling.

Literally besieged by protests, denials and appeals in the case that already has developed into a national sports controversy, the commissioner, confined to his bed with a bad cold and high blood pressure, ordered all facts brought before him so he could study the appeal made to him by Pitts. When he will make his decision public is not known.

Although Pitts' plea to be allowed to enter the organized baseball ranks with Albany was rejected by the minor league executive committee because he is an ex-convict tonight offered to furnish Commissioner Landis with proof that at least two paroled convicts have been allowed to compete in organized baseball ranks. The man was Howard Millard of Decatur, sports editor of the Decatur Herald-Review and former president of the Dayton, O., club of the Central league.

"While I do not care to mention names out of respect for a couple of fellows who may be happily married and have youngsters, I would gladly furnish Commissioner Landis with the information if he desires it," said Millard.

Twilight League Teams Tied Up At 5-All; Play Today

With the score tied at 5-all, the Reds and Blues teams of the twilight league will resume their series this evening at the Escanaba Golf Club. The matches are scheduled for 6:15 o'clock.

Because of the heavy rain last Tuesday many of the opening matches were not played. Pairings of last Tuesday will remain for this evening's matches, including those matches which were played. The matches played last week, however, will count in the league scoring.

Sightless Prove Real Athletes At Michigan School For Blind

BY G. MILTON KELLY
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Lansing, June 11 (AP)—Coaches of athletics at the Michigan school for the blind wonder whether sightlessness does not beget fearlessness in sports.

Norman Keller, principal of the high school and director of athletics, and Superintendent Joseph G. Coffman, an ardent sports fan, pointed today to the records the school's athletic teams made in the past sports year against boys who are not deprived of their sight.

The football boys, blind or nearly so, won three games and tied one of the seven games they played with other class D high schools last fall. The youths must depend upon their hearing and other faculties rather than on their eyes. A number of the linemen were absolutely blind or able to distinguish only between darkness and light, Keller said.

Fearless Tacklers

Coaching them is difficult. Those who have little or no sight learn to play their positions by holding their hands upon their coach's body while he repeatedly goes through the motions of the various plays. Then the boys try the plays and the coach corrects them. Keller says they learn quickly to obey instructions.

The youths who have the best vision are chosen for the end and backfield positions, where at least some sight is vital to runners, passers and kickers.

"These blind boys are fearless tacklers," Keller said. "They never hesitate. They act their parts as in a play. They block efficiently and tackle without the involuntary hesitation that sometimes mars the play of boys who have their sight."

Keller, who also is scoutmaster, teaches swimming when the students visit the plunge at the Boys Vocational Training school each Saturday. There is no swimming pool at the school for the blind.

"We don't have to bother about fear of the water among those blind boys," he said. "They seem to take to swimming naturally."

Sightless track athletes have to learn their course "by heart." They learn to run through lanes that are marked with wires strung from posts. The runner clasps a ring through which the wire is strung, and uses the ring to guide him until he learns the track. Each runner knows exactly how many steps he must take before making turns in the longer runs, and it is seldom one of them stumbles after he has learned the course.

Good at Basketball

They are handicapped on strange fields, however, where they have only a few trials in which to learn the position of turns. Nevertheless the school managed to land fifth place in the regional track and field meet at Mount Pleasant recently.

The basketball team is composed of boys who have partial vision. Their home gymnasium has light colored walls, making the dark ball more easily visible. The team won 12 of 15 games last winter.

Boxing and wrestling are not recognized sports, but the boys compete among themselves. Part of them acquire some skill at boxing, and those who have sight sometimes are outstanding wrestlers.

Baseball, which they cannot play, seems the blind boys' best loved sport. They have evolved a form of softball all their own. The pitcher kneels and rolls the ball to the batter, who snaps his fingers to direct the pitcher. The intention is to roll the ball so the batter can hit it, rather than to make him miss. The batter swings at the sound of the rolling ball, using a stroke something like a golfer's. There is just one base and the home plate. No one is permitted to guide the runner to the base and back. He has to use his own sense of direction and the boys make it an exciting contest.

Coffman and Keller consider Chris Jensen, a Muskegon youth who has attained partial eyesight, the outstanding athlete at the school. Jensen was totally blind when he learned football, but three operations have given him slight vision. Coffman said he believes Jensen, with normal vision, could become a "really great" football player.

Harry Fader of Flint is another member of the football team and "a good one," Coffman says.

Won't Use Canes

The girls also have their athletics. Principally they go in for basketball. Last winter they won five of nine games played with girls' teams from other class D high schools.

A victory for blind athletes over a team composed of students with unimpaired vision is something to celebrate, and the children do.

Canes are rare among the students. Those in the advanced grades refuse to carry them even when walking alone through the city. By listening to the echo of their footsteps they can judge accurately their position and walk as straight a line as children who can see. They are taught not to cross an intersection except with companions or when they can hear no traffic moving.

"If there is wheeled traffic, they know where it is and where it is going," Coffman says.

PHILCO DEALERS COMING JUNE 21

Arrangements for Royal Welcome Are About Complete

All arrangements are virtually completed for the welcoming of the 400 Philco radio dealers of the east central division, who will come to Escanaba June 20, Harold P. Lindsay, secretary of the Escanaba Chamber of Commerce, reported yesterday.

The Philco dealers are coming here aboard the palatial Steamship Seeandbee.

The first Philco cruise was on the Canadian S. S. Noronic back in 1929. The jobbers sailed from Detroit to Sault, Ont., and return. The second factory cruise in 1930 was more pretentious. Philco chartered the British Mail liner Arcadian and sailed away from New York to Bermuda. In 1931 Philco returned to the Great Lakes and jobbers sailed from Buffalo to Chicago on the chartered S. S. Seeandbee. Last year Philco men cruised to Bermuda and Nassau on the Furness Line steamer Queen of Bermuda.

Philco dealer cruises on Lake Erie out of Cleveland and Rochester have been an established practice for several years.

The ill-fated Morro Castle, which burned last winter with terrific loss of life, had carried the New York City organization on two cruises to Havana and Nassau. The first tour of this organization was to Bermudna on the Ward liner Oriente.

The Philco British corporation has had several cruises out of Liverpool to Belgium.

International Cruises

This year the factory leads the cruise parade, having chartered the Furness Monarch of Bermuda for a trip to Panama. The British group will said on the S. S. Vienna to Holland and Belgium. The Pacific group will go to Hawaii. The East Central group takes the Seeandbee to Escanaba and Mackinac, spending two hours on the Island, June 21. New York is using the Queen of Bermuda for another trip to Havana and the Chicago Unit, aboard the S. S. North American will arrive at Mackinac Island June 23.

Officials of the company said: "The combination of vacation and convention at the beginning of the radio year has proved a popular and beneficial plan for the factory people, jobbers and dealers alike, and cruises of one sort or another from points where cruising is practical will undoubtedly become established annual events."

Outstate Tourist Bureaus Opened

Grand Rapids—The Michigan Tourist and Resort associations cooperating with the state have opened three new outstate offices to help bring more visitors into Michigan this summer. At St. Louis, Mo., Miss Mildred Howe of Grand Rapids will have charge of the office in the lobby of the Hotel Statler. Miss Howe formerly had charge of the Chicago office; at Cleveland W. Q. Nelson of Cleveland will be in charge in the lobby of Hotel Statler; at Pittsburgh Dale Bauer is in charge in the lobby of the Wm. Penn Hotel. Another office is being opened shortly in Cincinnati. These offices will be open throughout the summer and Michigan literature and information will be given free. The Chicago office, open all year, is located at 332 So. Michigan avenue.

The secretaries of the four recognized tourist associations report greatly increased interest in recreational Michigan this year. Inquiries are far in excess of those received during recent years. Resorts and hotels have increased reservations and the traffic across the straits is way ahead of last year, the peak year in the history of the state ferry.

PROCLAMATION

ALMOST coincident with the creation of our Republic, it was ordained that its flag should consist of thirteen alternating red and white stripes with thirteen white stars in a blue field. From the moment of its adoption, the American flag has been inextricably bound up with all the glory and all the tradition of the Republic for which it stands—truly "one nation indivisible, with liberty and justice for all."

It is therefore eminently appropriate that the birth of this beautiful symbol of freedom, the fourteenth day of June, be fittingly commemorated—that there may be afforded us particular occasion for reflection upon its spiritual signifance in our lives.

I therefore call upon my fellow citizens to pause on that day to re-pledge allegiance to the Stars and Stripes, to display the flag conspicuously, and to conduct such exercises as will serve to re-dedicate our hearts to eternal homage to the flag.

Carl J. Sawyer, Mayor.

U. OF M. PLANS COURSE HERE

Three - Day Extension Program Sponsored by Alumni Club

Approval was given by the Escanaba board of education last evening to the request of the University of Michigan Alumni club to use the junior high school auditorium and classrooms for a special three-day extension course to be held Aug. 15 to 17.

Professors of the University of Michigan will conduct the course here. They are: Earl V. Moore, who will be in charge of the "Musical Appreciation" subject; Prof. James K. Pollock, "The Problem of Local Government"; Prof. Max Handman, "The New Deal"; and Prof. C. O. Thorpe, "Some Aspects of Modern Literature."

John A. Lemmer, superintendent-elect, outlined the plans for the commencement exercises Thursday evening, pointing out that the program will be radically changed this year. The commencement address has been eliminated, and the program will be featured instead by special exercises to commemorate the founding of the high school system of education 300 years ago.

The resignation of Ena Schuman, Jefferson school teacher, was accepted by the board of education at last night's meeting.

The board authorized John Bartel, head janitor of the local system, to attend the School Custodians course to be held in Rhinelander, July 24 to 26. In compliance with the new state law the board raised the tuition of outside high school students from $60 to $65 per year.

Action upon a request for the use of buildings for an ERA recreational program beginning next fall was deferred until some later meeting. The request was submitted by the Parent-Teacher associations.

Marberry Released By Detroit Tigers

Detroit, June 11 (AP)—Fred "Firpo" Marberry, who has been with the Detroit Tigers pitching staff since 1932, was given his unconditional release by the Tigers this afternoon.

Marberry was one of the veteran hurlers in the American League, having put in 10 yearsf with Washington before he came to Detroit with Carl Fischer in 1932 in a trade for Earl Whitehill. But since the start of the 1935 season, Marberry has failed to perform in his greatest baseball role—relief pitching. He was credited with one loss and no wins in six games this year.

"Big Fred", who spent a lot of time coaching young Detroit pitchers, broke into baseball with the Texas-Oklahoma loop in 1922. He played for a time with Little Rock and Jackson, Miss., and went up to the Senators in 1923. In his career with Washington, the righthander won 115 and lost 70, and last year while the Tigers were pennant bound, he turned in 15 wins and five losses.

Detroit club also announced that the lefthanded Clyde Hatter, who has been with Detroit since the spring training season, would be purchased from Louisville and kept as Tiger property.

Petition Urges Completion Of Huron Highway

Over 30,000 signatures have been pledged by the members of the Huron Shore Highway Clubs for petitions addressed to Congressman Brown, Governor Fitzgerald and Highway Commissioner Van Wagoner urging the immediate completion of the pavement on the Huron Shore Highway between Bay City and Mackinaw City.

The present shore route is paved from Bay City through Pinconning, Standish, Omer, Au Gres, Tawas City and East Tawas to Oscoda. From Oscoda there is no paving until 17 miles south of Alpena. However, the state highway department has begun paving a three-mile strip between these points at Harrisville, and the new route north of there is graded for 17 miles where it then connects with the pavement south of Alpena.

Out of Alpena the road will be rerouted, cutting away from the shore and offering a change of scenery by passing between Long and Grand Lakes. From Grand Lake the route will run in a straight line to Rogers City where the Huron shore will again be picked up and followed all the way to Cheboygan. Twelve miles of this route south of Cheboygan is graded and ready for paving. The remainder of the way from Cheboygan to Mackinaw City, a distance of 15 miles, is now paved along the shore.

Dr. Foley stated that the completing of the Huron Shore Highway will put to work a large number of the unemployed in the counties along the route and that the opening of the completed road will play a major part on the future development of Northeastern Michigan by permitting the utilization of its greatest natural resource—its scenic beauty.

POLITICS OUT—BEAN

Ironwood—L. S. Bean, supervisor of Ottawa national forest, told the Ironwood Association of Commerce this noon at the St. James hotel that numerous unfounded protests, many of them political in nature, have been sent from Ironwood to Washington regarding the forest service program here.

"As long as I stay here there will be no politics in my program," said Mr. Bean. "Political factions are not going to undermine my program. This program is going to be on the up and up basis and there will be no politics."
